I am a native of England, and while I was in that country I contracted a terrible blood poison, and for twe years was under treatment as an outdoor patient at Notingham Hospital. AFTER DINNER.

Persons who suffer from Indigestion can arrest the progress of that painful malady by the use of an after-dinner pill, so composed that it will give tone to the stomach, prevent heartburn, rouse the liver to healthful action, invigorate the kidneys, and thus, through the activity of these organs, promote the natural movement of the stomach and bowels.

contain no mineral nor poisonous substance, and do not gripe unless the bowels are irritated, and even then their influence is healing. To continue their effect in constipated or chronic cases, they need only be taken in diminishing instead of increasing doses. For seamen, and inabitants or travelers in sparsely settled countries where physicians are not at hand, they are of inestimable value. There is hardly a stekness they will not alleviate, and in most cases cure, if taken promptly. To young girls just entering upon womanhood, and to women whose period of maternity is drawing to a close. What is known as Charles Sumner's tree in the Capitol grounds is dying and will have to be taken away. This tree stands in the centre of the walk leading from New Jersey avenue to the Southeast entrance to the Capitol Building, and was greatly admired by Senator Sumner for its splendid symmetry and luxuriant foliago. Some years ago when the Capitol grounds were being remodelled, the landscape architect directed its removal to make room for the walk. Senator Simon Cameron, from his rooms at the Congressional Hotel, saw what was going on and ran over to the place in his dressing-gown and slippers. He made use of some very vigorous language concerning the new-fangled landscape architecture that was being introduced, and swore that Sumner's tree should not be sacrificated. He walk that Sumner's tree should not be sacrificated. What is known as Charles Sumner' that Sumner's tree should not be sacrific-ed. He said that Sumner and he had ed. He said that Sumner and he had never been friends, but that as long as he lived he should see that so noble an object of his colleague's affection should be spared. So the tree was allowed to stand an obstruction in the centre of the walk; but although Mr. Cameron could tie the hands of the woodman, he cannot obstruct the process of nature, and the tree must be a second that the stands of the woodman, he cannot obstruct the process of nature, and the tree must go.

I can find plenty of people who can im-prove every line I have ever written, who can't write one good one of their own. There are two things that everybody thinks they can do better than anyone else—punch the fire and edit a daily paper. There are lots of things in this world we can't explain, and that is just what makes the things we can explain more certain.

Chicago Inter-Occas.

That reminds me, said a youngish sort of a newspaper man, that I forgot my name not long ago. I had been out West for several months, and was in the habit of calling at the general delivery of the postoffice for my mail. The clerk who was usually on duty there learned to know me, and I never thought of giving my name when I asked for mail. On this ccasion I was expecting a rather important letter, and I found a new clerk onduty at the window. When I asked for letters he demanded with some suddenness my name. It came on me while my mind was intent on the subject of the expected letter, and do you know that I absolutely forgot my own name. I walked off a few feet and stood for several minutes trying to recall own name. I walked off a few feet and stood for several minutes trying to recall my name. I could not do it. Then it struck me that I was losing my mind, that I was becoming insane, and I dashed out of the building a little wildly. As my loot was on the last step memory came back. My name was clear to me, and I returned and got my letters.

More Depressed than a Week ago-The Latest Quotations. Bosron, April 3.—The Advertiser in its weekly review of the wool market says: The market is more depressed, and sales are more difficult to effect than even a week ago, although the total reported is larger, but this embraces wool sold some larger, but this embraces wool sold some time previously and only now delivered. It is not that manufacturers have no orders for goods, or are not running their mills, for there are only about 850 woollen operatives out on a strike in New England, but they will not buy ahead, in view of the uncertainties of the labor question. They are afraid of strikes as never before, and with good reason, for the craze seems to be the rage everywhere. The market is in that state of quiescent repose that any pressure to sell must be at a sacrifice, and while some wools are still most firmly held, that is the exception and generally due to instructions of shippers. We turther revise many quotations, and even as quoted wool woods are soin most imply nett, and as as the exception and generally due to instructions of shippers. We further revise many quotations, and even as quoted wool is weak and difficult to quote.

No. 1 Ohio and Pennsylvania will not go over 34c, and 35c is extreme for Ohio X. For XX and above Ohio we consider 34c a full price, and for Michigan X 30c is the top. We are obliged to reduce the extreme selling prices of No. 1 combing and fine delains Ic. The offerings of territory are now restricted in quality, and only the best will bring full quotations. It would be so difficult now to obtain 25c for Ohio and Pennsylvania unmerchantable that we reduce to 24c. There are nearly 300,000 lbs of Georgia wool offering. Some Georgia parties have been in the market recently looking over the prospects for the new clip. Pulled wools are generally quiet, and the best extra pulled is firm; B supers are particularly casy. upers are particularly easy.
